DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-53, drawn to micro- and nanofluidic devices for determining characteristics of an individual particle or biological cell.

Group II, claim(s) 54-70, drawn to methods for measuring DNA content in a cell.

The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

The technical feature linking the inventions of Groups I and II appears to be microfluidic devices for detecting particles or biological cells comprising: a substrate bearing first electrode and a second electrode; means for passing the particle or cell between the electrodes, selective application of an electrical signal, and detection of the particle or cell.

However, Heller et al (U.S. Patent No. 5,849,486, issued 15 December 1998) disclose a device for detecting specific binding entities (e.g., DNA, column 5, lines 27-28) utilizing a substrate bound first electrode and a second electrode and a means for passing the particle between the electrodes and selective application of an electrical signal (e.g., a matrix of addressable microscopic locations wherein each microlocation is able to control electronically and direct the binding of the specific binding entities; column 5, lines 22-27) that can detect the particle or cell (e.g., the device has detector elements; column 7, lines 45-49). Therefore, the technical feature linking the inventions of Groups I and II does not constitute a special technical feature as defined by PCT Rule 13.2 as it does not define a contribution over the prior art.

The special technical feature of Group I is considered to be micro- and nanofluidic devices for determining characteristics of an individual particle or biological cell.

The special technical feature of Group II is considered to be methods for determining DNA content in a cell.

Accordingly, Groups I and II are not so linked by the same or a corresponding special technical feature so as to form a single general inventive concept.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
